FIFTEEN THOUSAND DISAPPOINTED PEOPLE VIEW

THE MATCH RACE BETWEEN THE STALL-

ION AND THE LITTLE MARE.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. Boston, Oct. 20.—There were 15,000 disappointed spectators at Mystic Park this afternoon when Alix and Directum came together in the much talked-of match race, which was expected to settle the question of supremacy as between these two renowned trotters and to develop one of the fastest and hardest-fought contests on record. The race turned out to be a one-sided fluke owing to Directum's lack of condition, and Alix won in a walk, so to speak, without having to trot faster than 2:09. The big race attracted horsemen from all parts of the country, many well-known Circuit followers having made a flying trip from the Western-Southern Circuit meeting at Nashville, Tenn., while others came from Chicago, St. Louis and John Green, the owner of Directum, travelled all the way from Dublin, Cal., to see his once great herse perform, Frank S. Gorton, vice-president of the Washington Park Club; James Murphy and Robert L. Allen were among the Chicago delegation, while David Bonner, Albert Hale, Samuel M. Millan, J. W. Knox and represented the New-York horsemen.

The day was a perfect one for racing, with the almost too warm for comfort, and the hazy Detober air at a dead calm. Not so much can said for the track, the worn-out soil of which lacks the adhesive quality that is the strong point the record-breaking courses in the West was as fast as Mystic Park can be made, but, in spite of the work and water, the footing was loose, dead and cuppy, so much so that Monroe Salisbury said he considered the course from three to four seconds slower than Terre Haute, at least far as his mare Alix was concerned. When the horsemen gathered at the track this morning the prevailing impression seemed to be that Alix would win the race. Something had evidently changed public opinion within the last day or two, for up to last night the betting was "even money and take your pick," while to-day the odds vere strongly in favor of Alix. A feeble attempt to establish Directum as the favorite when the betting began at the track, one or two pools selling at $100 for the stallion against $55 r the mare; but when the heavy players stepped ring the Alix money prevailed, and the odds shifted to $100 to $60 on the mare before the first heat was trotted. Hickok had worked the black horse out sharply in his warming-up miles, and, while he appeared to be sore and all tied-up in gging. Directum at times showed something nis old-time mettle and speed, rushing through the stretches with square and rapid stride. Allx never looked better than when McDowell sent her along at half speed the reverse way of the track. Her driver pronounced her "good," and predicted that Directum would have to go three heats in the neighborhood of 2:07 to win. Both trotters were greeted with applause when they jossed up the stretch for the start, but the hand-clapping was loudest when the dainty little mare moved past the grandstand with mincing step, showing that she was the popular favorite, as well showing that she was the popular favorite, as when as the choice of the betting fraternity. The first time the famous trotters came down for the word that the famous trotters came down for the word that the famous trotters came down for the word that the famous trotters semt them away, it was a wretched start. Alts having half a length the best of it, while Directum went away pacins. He was so mixed up that Hickok had to take him back almost to a break before he inally squared away. By this time Alix had reached the eighth pole and had opened a gap of four lengths or more. Mc Dowell did not turn about to see where Lie let the Town and the start of the best clip she could go on the loose, cuppy footing, which broke away beneath her flying feet at every stride. Hickok called on Directum, and the sometime champion responded with such speed that he held his ground to the finish, without lossing more than his mixed-up start had root him at east of the head for the mile, and Directum state of the head without breaking, brought to a case, apparent with the solid for the first that the work had the was a great disappointment, but everybody looked forward to faster time and a rest that the collectum should everybody looked forward to faster time and a rest that the work had been such as the collectum only up to helf-far collies without breaking, brought to a for the stallion.

In the nex heat the scoring was again brief, the pair getting off after only one false start. McDowell the kinner, for the odds leasthened until she sold for the start. The late of the heat was a great disappointment, but everybody looked forward to faster time and a rest the start. The late of the heat was a great disappointment, but everybody looked forward to faster time and a rest of the fart turn. The life had been controlled with the way and the way and the way and the start, while Hickok again had to shift him into a trot at a loss of four to five lengths at a scorchia race, shuffled and mixed and paced that he had been an advantaged to the as the choice of the betting fraternity. The first time the femous trotters came down for the word mare was 2:14% and that of the vanquished station was 2:16%.

This sorry exhibition left no further room to doubt that Directum was not himself, and the race was seen to be all over but the announcement. Hickok was greatly chagrined on account of Directum's poor showing, and he asked permission to draw the horse. This the judges consented to, and, by way of making up for the fizzle. Mr. Salisbury consented to have McDowell drive Alix a fast mile. The best she could do on the cumpy track was 2:07%, and she finished the heat perceptibly tired, after going to the half in 1:32%. The fractional time of her miles was: in the first heat-0.22, 1:04%, 1:37, 2:06; second-0.32, 1:05%, 1:30, 2:14%; third-0:32%, 1:33%, 2:07%. Summaries: MATCH, $5,000 TROTTING.

CLOSING DAY AT NASHVILLE. SEVERAL SURPRISES AND A NUMBER OF RECORDS LOWERED.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20.-The fall trotting meeting at Cumberland Park closed to-day. The at-tendance was small, though the weather was pleas-ant and the track fast. The 2:10 trot was the race of the day, but it resulted in a big disappointment to the followers of Trevillian, whose performance during the meeting led them to believe that he was almost invincible. He sold a strong favorite over the field. Phoebe Wilkes won the first heat by half a length from Trevillian, in 2:0812, which lowered her record from 2004. The next heat found ered her record from 2:09%. The next heat found Phoebe Wilkes the favorite, and she won the following two heats after close finishes with Hamilin's Nightingale. Trevillian quitting badly. The last heat in the 2:21 trot was taken by the Village Farm stallion. Heir-at-Law, the time being 2:12, which reduced his mark from 2:13%, made in the first heat of the day before.

The downfall of another favorite took place in the 2:40 trot when Gil Curry's three-year-old Red Bud had to lower his colors to Venetia Wilkes, the good daughter of Guy Wilkes.

Freeland took the Consolation Stake from Charming Chimes in straight heats.

Oakland Baron, who holds the two-year-old race record, went against his time of 2:16%, going in 2:14%, which is the fastest mile gone by a two-year-old this year. Lady Nelson lowered her record from 2:22% to 3:21%.

Heir-at-Law won the unfinished 2:21 trot, purse 500; Mary Best second, Mambrino Queen third. Time-2:12. Summaries:

FOR A BIG BICYCLE SHOW. PREPARATIONS FOR ONE TO BE HELD ON AN ELABORATE SCALE IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

The bicycle show which will be held this year under the auspices of the National Board of Cycle Manufacturers will probably be the most complete and comprehensive that has ever taken place in this city. Manufacturers of wheels, "cycle accessories" and "cycle sundries" from all over the country have already taken up all the spaces set aside for exhibition purposes in Madison Square Garden. where the show will be held from January 19 to January 26. The allotment of spaces was made at the meeting of the Executive Committee held in Madison Square Garlen last Monday. Among those present were A. G. Spalding, William F. Wilson A. McKee, A. Kennedy Child and Frank W. Sanger, also representatives of the bicycle trade fournals. First choice was given to the firms offer ing the largest bonus, and in cases where there was no competition for a particular space no bonus was asked, but the committee gave preference to was asked, but the committee gave preference to seniority of applications and to the firms who applied for the largest amount of space.

At the time of the meeting applications had been received from eighty-four firms, among whom are the most important manufacturers of bleycles, tires, whoels, sundries, etc. Among those who have secured large spaces are the Pope Manufacturing Campany, A. G. Spaiding & Brother, W. E. Stern Wheel Company, Columbia Rubber Works, C. P. Guyon, E. C. Stearns, H. A. Lozler, Indiana Cycle Company, Premier Cycle Company, Wilson, Myers & Co., Black Manufacturing Company, Sering Cycle Works, Crawford Manufacturing Company, Schoverling, Daily & Gales, Eagle Bleycle Company, Buffalo Tricycle Company, Pratt & Whitney Company, J. P. Loveli Arms Company, yest Manufacturing Company and the Union Cycle Manufacturing Company and the Union Cycle Manufacturing Company.

The indications are that the bicycle show will be a great success.

GILLETTE WON THE PURSE.

An ideal October day brought together a large attendance at Parkway, L. I., yesterday, to witness one of the best races ever seen over the course, between the black gelding Gillette, 2:11%; San Pedro, 2:184, and Cephas, 2:184. The track was in good condition. In the first heat Gillette got away well lead, but made a break which lost him the heat to San Pedro, but in the second heat he forced San Pedro to a break at the quarter, and he set such a pace that it was all San Pedro could do to such a pace that it was all San Fedro could do to save his distance, with Cephas several lengths be-hind. In the third heat Cephas set sail, but he was simply outclassed by the black gelding, who gradu-ally drew away from him, finishing the mile with the horses well strung out.

In the fourth heat Gillette started to beat 2:15, and although he made two breaks in the mile he landed under the wire in 2:11 flat, winning the heat and race. The summaries:

TAMMANY HEELERS FEEL FREE TO COM-MIT REGISTRATION FRAUDS

THEY MAY BE INDICTED, BUT THEY ARE NEVER

the police, acting under the orders

Superintendent Syrnes and members of the Good Government Clubs of the City Vigilance League, are busy collecting evidence of fraudulent registration in the city, expecting that men who are implicated in the frauds will be indicted and punished the Tammany workers are calculating that nobody will be sent to prison or be compelled to pay fines. Their boldness in the face of the discoveries which are being made daily is explained by the fact that the perpetrators of such frauds have been discovered, arrested and indicted in other years, but never punished. They are like some of the Tam-many liquor-dealers who are caught violating the Excise law on Sundays time after time, and yet necessity of furnishing bail when they are ar

What if they do have some blokes arrested and in-dicted for registering from this hotel? Did anybody ever hear of anybody being convicted for voting from here? I guess not.

Assistant District-Attorney Wellman prosecuted a number of election officers who committed or per-mitted election frauds in the city last fall, and most of them were either sent to prison or paid ones, but no attempt has been made to punish men who were guilty of registration frauds previous o the election last fall. The police say that the ndictments found against persons who have been engaged in fraudulent registration have the effect deter some of the guilty men from voting at th elections, but most of the indicted men escape arrest. It is the rule to secure the indictment of mer who have registered from places which are not their lawful residences and then secure bench war rants for the arrest of the men. The men cannot be found at the places where they claimed to live, as a rule, and so the police keep the warrants until Election Day, and are ready to arrest the men if they apear at the polling places and attempt to Some arrests are made, but even when the nanage to escape trial on account of some mysteri

The case of Hartholomew Buckley, one of the henchmen of State Senator "Dry-Dollar" Sullivan the Tammany leader in the HIId Assembly District, is a good illustration. Before the last day of regis-tration last fall it was discovered that twenty men tration last fail it was discovered that twenty men had been registered from the liquor store at No. 20 Bowery. "Dry Dollar" Sullivan's headquarters, and the uter audacity of Sullivan's headquarters, and the uter audacity of Sullivan's headquarters, and the uter audacity of Sullivan's apporters was made evident by the fact that there were no sceeping accommodations at that blace for so many men. At other places where Tammany "floaters" had been condized there had been at least a pretence of evading the law by having cots for lodgers. When the facts about the colony at No. 26 Bowery were published the reckless managers at that place realized that something must be done, and a number of cots were smuggled into the place. Buckley was placed in charge of the so-called lodging-house as the alleged proprietor. Buckley was indicted, and on the afternoon of October 25 he was arrested at the place by Detective-Sergeant Titus. In the Court of General Sessions before Judge Martine the same day Buckley was called to answer twenty indictinents which the Grand Jury had found against him. There was a separate indictment for each man who had registered from his alleged lodging-house. The men had registered at a barber-shop in Rivington-st, near the Bowery, the poiling-place of the Seventeenth Election District of the Hild Assembly District.

Buckley was required to furnish $250 ball for each indictment, or $5,000 ball in all. His bondsman was Frederick Rabbe, a liquor-dealer at No. 120 Centrest, who swore that he had an equity of $12,000 in the house at No. 31 East One-hundred-and-fourthst. Buckley, as a henchman of the great "Dry Dollar," was furious because he was obliged to spend some few minutes in the pen with common prisoners before he was released on ball, and he was loud in his denunciation of Judge Martine on account of the indignity which he thought he had been unjustity compelled to bear. He said he lived at No. 165 Mott-st. Sullivan declared that every one of the twenty men would come to be tried that it could not had been registered from the liquor store at No. 20

furn would come
"Dry Dollar" Sullivan said yesterday that he could not explain why the indictments in Buckley's case had been kept in the pigeon-holes so long.
"Has Buckley got a lodging-house at the same place this year?" the Senator was asked.
"Oh, no," he replied. "There are no lodgers there this year."
"Is Buckley still a worker in your district?"
"Yes, Buckley is all right. He is ready to be tried any time."

MAX JAGERHUBER ON "FOREIGN DISTRUST. Max Jägerhuber, in "The Drygoods Economist," of which he is associate editor, has, among other thirds, his to say about the relations between textile Europe and the United States:

Many have asked and but few have answered correctly the question. "Whence comes the great distrust of America among the European manufacturers and merchants, and how will it end?" Sure enough, every industry depending for an outlet on foreign markets is anxious to establish firmly its hold upon the American trade, particularly so as this market has shown such absorptive capacity for the last generation; but our cousins across the Atlantic are our severe critics, and they reason, not without justice, that the debauchment of American politics, the utter demoralization of the party elected by the people to reform an excessive tariff, and other inconsistencies must necessarily impair the confidence of the European world of finance and industry.

Europe, in common with the average intelligent man in this country, sees on the horizon "black Fridays" and "blue Mondays," and this must not be wondered at when we remember that the investing public, which is largely composed of merchants and manufacturers, has been fearfully bled in all sorts of investments, notably those in railroads during the last year or two. I have taken the trouble to carefully inquire into the conditions prevailing in Europe, notably on the Continent and in Germany, and I fand that the foremost students of American affairs have lost their faith in our securities.

Contrary to the report published in representative papers on this side of the Atlantic, I have observed that in a great many textile centres the new tariff is regarded only as a makeshift, a comprymise measure, not destined to permanency, and this in itsel is a most unsettling factor. It is not, however, the tariff that is going to improve trade, but confidence; and this at all times has been a plant of sure growth. Unless we so protect ourselves that Europe can regain its former confidence in the interest of this distrust for a long time to come. For my part, I do not see so much sunshine ahead as some people would prophesy for the immediate future.

DEMOCRATS GETTING SCARED

TAMMANY AND THE GRACE PEOPLE TO COMPROMISE.

EACH WILL WITHDRAW SOME OF ITS CONGRESS AND ASSEMBLY CANDIDATES-WISSIG'S

WIFE INDIGNANT.

There is promised an exciting shaking up of Demo cratic drybones in many of the Congress and As-sembly districts this week. Senator Charles J. Faulkner, of West Virginia, who is chairman of the Democratic Congress Committee, will arrive here from Washington on Tuesday to confer with the Tammany Hall and Grace Democracy leaders about withdrawing Congress candidates of the two organizations in several New-York City districts, and oncentrating the Democratic vote on one candidate. This will probably result in the disappearance om the ticket, and the places to be filled by Grac two and possibly three Tammany Hall candidates Democrats. According to reports in circulation yes terday, believed to come from authentic sources. James J. Walsh, in the Villth, and John Connelly. in the XIVth, Tammany candidates for Congress are scheduled for retirement. General Daniel E Sickles, who has all along vociferously offered to lay his head upon the block in the interest of Hill and Democratic harmony, may also be called upor to take a back seat and permit a Grace man to ac cept a Union Democratic nomination in the Xth

A similar shake up, only on a greater scale, is promised in the Assembly districts. Hill has been acking Hinkley and Thacher in demanding a dea Hall and State Democracy in every district when Tammany is not believed strong enough to elect its candidate unaided by the anti-Tammany vote. When the break begins in the Congress districts nobody can tell how far it will go. Besides Assemblymen many Tammany Hall Aldermen who imagine they can pull through again are likely to be compelled to send in their declinations.

It was understood yesterday that Philip Wissig no longer questioned the dire necessity which con pelled Tammany Hall to take him off the ticket for no longer questioned the dire necessity which compelled Tammany Hall to take him off the ticket for Assembly in the Hild District. Mr. Grant demanded Wissig's retirement to appease the moral sentiment of the community, aroused to indignation by the remembrance of his filthy utterances in the Assembly Chamber in the session of 1892. Wissig is no better and no worse than the average Wigwam politician, but he has been utilized to impress the public with ex-Mayor Grant's desire to appear sensitive when asked to run on a ticket with men of Wissig's class.

"Lord, how virtuous Grant is getting!" said a Hild District Tammany man yesterday. "Isn't he the man that put 'Paddy' Divver on the police bench? Why doesn't he drive Divver out of the Tammany Hall leadership in the Hild he has such a horror of smirched reputations? Or, better still, why doesn't he compel Divver to leave the place of Police Justice? If Grant was as sensitive on these subjects as he would have people believe. Divver would not have been a Police Justice nearly four years at a cost to the taxpayers of New-York of about $2,000."

The wife of Philip Wissig presided in his wineshop, at Grand and Forsyth sis, yesterday, in his absence, and gave vent to her indignation when anybody spoke to her about the report that Wissig would be pulled out of the race for the office of Assemblyman She declared that if he was withdrawn rhe would go to see Hugh J. Grant and make him give his objections to the husband. Wissig. "My husband is just as good a man as Hugh J. Grent ever was in his life," she said, "and I will want to know the reason for turning him down". "Sliver Dollar" Smith, another shining light of Tammany in the district, was heard to declare that he would be pulled out of nothing without the consent of "Dry Dollar" Sullivan, the Tammany leader in the district.

There was a report in the Hd Assembly District.

There was a report in the Hd Assembly District that "Paddy" Divver might be asked to lay aside the office of Police Justice, but his followers did not appear to be wrenching their intellects so far as to believe that the "ledge" would ever give up anything unless he was absolutely compelled to do so. They did say that "Hughey" Grant appeared to be feeling just a little bit too good for his party, and it was about time for him to "take a tumble to himself."

JOHN H. CONGER WILL RUN AGAIN. VOTERS OF NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. HAVE AN

OPPORTUNITY TO RIGHT A WRONG. John H. Conger, of New-Brunswick, N. J., has again received the nomination for Clerk of Mid date for this place five years ago, and was un that time depended upon the vote cast at the first poll in the Sixth Ward of New-Brunswick. At this poll during the noon hour of Election Day the ballot-box was removed to the back room of the polling-place. There several ballots were re-moved and others bearing the name of Patrick Convery, Democratic candidate for County Clerk were inserted in their stead. This determined the election by a small majority in favor of Convery The Republicans took the matter before the courts and there it was proved that more ballots had been cast for Conger than were in the box wher the count took place. Justice Scudder, of the Su preme Court, decided in favor of Conger. Democrats passed a law bringing the case before the Court of Errors and Appeals, and this Court decided that Justice Scudder had improperly, of his own motion, admitted the ballot-box as evidence after both sides had refused to do so. This decision compelled the whole case to be heard again on questions of fact. The Democrats, in the mean white, passed a law requiring all such contests to be heard before a jury. Mr. Conger at once dropped the case, as he said he would have no confidence in any jury which might be drawn in New Brunswick. Mr. Convery has, in consequence, exercised the functions and enjoyed the emoluments, estimated at $5,000 a year, of Cierk of Middlest County. The honest men of both parties now have a chance of righting this great wrong by electing Mr. Conger, and he will poil many votes which no other Republican candidate could secure. Democrats passed a law bringing the case before

MRS. FLOWER BITTEN BY A PET DOG.

THE GOVERNOR SAYS THE INJURY IS NOT SERIOUS-THE ANIMAL NOT TO BE KILLED. Albany, Oct. 20.-Concerning the published story that Mrs. Flower had been bitten in the check on Wednesday by a pet dog, the Governor this morning said that the facts as stated were substantially correct. The injury is neither severe nor serious, and the family did not believe the dog had been vicious. The wound was cauter-ized, and Mrs. Flower is at the Executive Man-sion and doing well. The dog is undoubtedly healthy, and will not be killed.

NOTES OF INTEREST FROM YALE.

New-Haven, Conn., Oct. 20.-The faculty of the ommend to the Corporation of the Yale University that the course of study in the law department be increased from two to three years. It is the purpose of the law faculty to have the plan acted on at once, and the change to take effect the com-ing year. This move of the Law School directors is in accordance with similar attempts by law schools all over the country, which have lengthened their course of study a year.

The annual report of the Yale Track Athletic Association for the past year was given out to-day by President W. S. Wolcott. The expenses are given as $5.082.32, the largest item being $2.082.37 for training table. The Yale Financial Union assisted the Track Athletic Association with the amount of $2.102.86, and subscriptions in the university raised $1.540.28. The expenses of the association the previous year were $5.970.94. is in accordance with similar attempts by law

UNVEILING OF A STATUE OF DR. JAMES MARION SIMS.

INTERESTING CEREMONIES AND ADDRESSES IN BRYANT PARK-SPEECHES FROM FORMER COLLEAGUES.

The exercises attending the unveiling of the statue of Dr. James Marion Sims and the presentation to the city were held yesterday afternoon in Bryant Park, where several hundred people ha gathered to get a first look and hear the speeches. on a platform facing the shrouded figure were the prators of the day and about thirty guests, among hem Dr. H. Marion Sims and the little grandson f the original of the statue. Others present were D. B. St. John Roosa, president of the Academy of Medicine; Dr. Abraham Jacoby, Dr. Lewis A. Sayre. Dr. Gadwillig, Dr. J. A. Wyeth, Civil Justice Stiner, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould, Robert Miller, A. R. Robinson, William M. Polk, Robert Taylor, O. D. Pomeroy, Y. R. Goffe, W. G. Wylle, E. L. Reese and Mrs. G. F. Schrady. Among the spectators in the park there was also a delegation from the New-York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital. Dr. G. F. Schrady and Professor Paul F. Mundé, "The Medical Record," delivered memorial addresses, each of which, though brief, teemed with eferences to the many services which Dr. Sims had rendered to science. The statue of Dr. Sims is the first of its kind erected in the city. The distinction was awarded to him, Professor Munde said, because "among the many eminent physicians and surgeons which America has produced he stands pre-eminent as the man through whose gentus a special branch of medical science and practice was so elevated as to create an era in medicine, and raise America from the place of the pupil to the proud position of the teacher of older nations."

the place of the pupil to the proud position of the teacher of older nations."

In 1852 he came to New-York, his one great object being to establish a hospital for the exclusive treatment of diseases peculiar to women. In 1855 he formed the Woman's Hospital Association, which was the origin of the present Woman's Hospital at Forty-ninth-st, and Park-ave. This latter was the first institution of its kind in the world, and became famous for the teaching of Sims and his colleagues, Emmet, Thomas and Peasiee. From it dates modern operative gynecology. The genius of Sims was active in other fields also.

Early in his career he advanced a new and important theory on "Convusions in Infants," and he was among the first, if not the first, to recognize an abscess in the liver, and open it by a free incision. One of his original achievements was his criticism of the treatment of the wound of President Garfield, which was scouted by the leading surgeons at the time. Now, however, his theory has been so far proved that any surgeon who did not at once carry out his advice in similar cases would be considered criminally negligent.

One of his first patients was a female slave in his native Carolinas, for whom he made thirty experiments before attaining finally a successful operation.
